満州史 1840～1948年：

中国、ロシア、日本の三角関係 全2巻

The History of Manchuria 1840–1948:
A Sino-Russo-Japanese Triangle

2 volume set

Edited by Ian Nish

In ten extended chapters, supported by a wide selection of contemporary documents, Ian Nish provides an important new account and assessment of the turbulent times suffered by the three north-eastern provinces of China, generally called 'Manchuria', in the course of the last two centuries. The territory rarely enjoyed peace (three major wars were fought on its soil in 1894, 1904 and 1919), although its economy progressed as a result of the building of arterial railways. From 1932, it also had an important role in world affairs when the short-lived state of Manchukuo was declared by the Japanese Government—subsequently brought to an end by the punitive occupation of the country by Soviet forces in 1945. Thereafter, the devastated country was fought over in a brutal civil war by Chinese Nationalist and Communist armies until Mukden (Shenyang) fell to the Communists in October 1948.

イアン・ニッシュは同時代の幅広い記録をもとに、一般に満州と呼ばれる中国東北部の三省が経験した近代2世紀にわたる動乱の時代を、各巻10章の構成で、新しく重要な視点から説明し、評価を加えています。この地域が平和を享受したことは稀でしたが（1894年、1904年、1919年には3つの大規模な戦争がこの地で戦われています）、幹線鉄道工事の結果として経済的には発展しました。1932年以降、日本が満州国を作ったことで世界情勢の中で重要な役割を果たしました。満州国は1945年にソビエトの過酷な占領下に置かれることによりその短命を終えましたが、その後は、1948年10月に奉天（瀋陽市）が共産党の手に落ちるまで中国国民党と共産党の軍隊の間で激しい内戦の舞台となりました。

“Literature is the expression of a feeling of deprivation, a recourse against a sense of something missing. But the contrary is also true: language is what makes us human. It is a recourse against the meaningless noise and silence of nature and history.”

ベン・ジョンソン百科事典

The Ben Jonson Encyclopedia

By D. Heyward Brock and Maria Palacas

The Ben Jonson Encyclopedia covers in detail the works, life, and times of this seminal figure of the English Renaissance. The cross-referenced entries include summaries of all Jonson's plays, masques, and entertainments, as well as sketches of Jonson's friends, enemies, patrons, disciples, actors, and fellow writers. In addition, the book identifies historical figures, mythological characters, and classical authors, as well as Jonson's contemporaries and London place names mentioned in the works. Individuals who danced or participated in the masques and entertainments or tournaments for which Jonson wrote speeches are noted, as are the main actors known to have acted in the plays. All major scholars—from Jonson's own day until the twenty-first century—who have commented on Jonson or his works are also included. An extensive bibliography completes this invaluable scholarly reference tool.

Women's Travel Writings in Scotland, 4 volume set

Chawton House Library: Women's Travel Writings

Edited by Kirsteen McCue and Pamela Perkins

This collection includes the first critical editions of both Anne Grant's Letters from the Mountains (1806), one of the Romantic era's most successful non-fictional accounts of the Scottish Highlands, and Elizabeth Isabella Spence's Letters from the North Highlands (1816), a work that, while influenced by Grant's Letters, attempted to move the genre of the Scottish travelogue in new directions. Read together, these volumes offer complementary views of Scottish Highland life at a time of major historical transition.

The Edinburgh Companion to Critical Theory

Edinburgh Companions to Literature

Edited by Stuart Sim

This title provides a comprehensive analysis of the changing role of critical theory in the new century. Taking note of new theoretical and socio-political developments, this volume demonstrates critical theory's continuing relevance across disciplines ranging from the arts through to the hard sciences.

“Linguistics will have to recognise laws operating universally in language, and in a strictly rational manner, separating general phenomena from those restricted to one branch of languages or another.”

Critical Concepts in Women's History

Edited by Cordelia Beattie

This new collection of major works from Routledge addresses the different ways in which medieval women have been studied by looking at religious and secular women, women according to their stage in the life cycle, and according to their social status. Important theoretical issues are also tackled, such as the applicability of terms such as misogyny, anti-feminism, and feminism, the cultural construction of the body, and the periodization of women's history.

Critical Concepts in Philosophy

Edited by William Fish

This collection provides the reader with the historical background needed to understand the key concerns of contemporary philosophy of perception (Volume I) as well as a detailed understanding of the different theories that attempt to address those concerns (Volume II). The collection also provides the reader with an appreciation for the many ways in which philosophical and empirical, scientific approaches to perception interact with one another (Volume III) and introduces the reader to both historical and contemporary attempts to move our thinking about perception beyond the central case of vision (Volume IV).

Muslim-Christian Encounters 4 volume set
Critical Concepts in Religious Studies

Edited by Mona Siddiqui

While the subject of Christian-Muslim or Muslim-Christian interaction is still not a traditional or systematic discipline, interest in the encounter of these two religions has grown over the last decade. Historians have always been interested in the civilizational meeting of the two religions, in conflict or in times of peace. This includes aspects of post-colonial studies, which incorporate cultural, literary and political writings which consider the intellectual and social ruptures in so much of the Islamic world in the 19th and 20th centuries.

The collection is comprised of around 60 pre-published journal articles and some book chapters. Each volume contains around 15 articles/chapters. The articles are secondary sources analysing the works of individual Christian and Muslim scholars. Volume One contains an Introduction to the whole collection.
